

Guidelines for Assembly

(Applicable to the prevention of various kinds of influenza and communicable diseases)

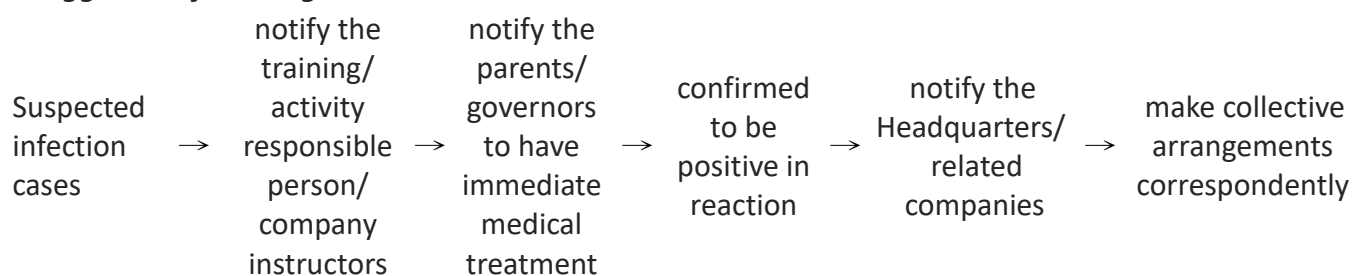

According to the Education Bureau's guideline for suspension of schooling, and in view of the development of influenza, Companies should follow the guidelines of the Center for Health Protection and Education Bureau, and warn members and instructors about personal hygiene and health situations. These include:

1. Before assembly/gathering, participants should measure the temperature. If there is a temperature *(higher than 99.5°F {Fahrenheit} or 37.5°C {Celsius}), or any suspected symptoms, it is suggested that parents be notified, and the member should see a doctor and go home to take rest.
2. If members/instructors feel unwell, especially if they have fever or coughing, and any other respiratory tract infection or influenza symptoms, they are advised to stop assembling and seek medical advice.
3. In case there are many members/instructors with symptoms of influenza, Companies should consider stopping assembly; companies should consider stopping assembly according to the guidelines of the Centre for Health Protection and the Education Bureau, plus the situations in the company. If assembly is to continue, every participant in the assembly is advised to wear a mask.

Notification Mechanism for probable and confirmed infection

In case during our organization's/company's training/activities/assembly, instructors/members are found infected and confirmed to have influenza, please follow the Centre for Health Protection's direction to have suitable medical treatment and act according to the related guidelines.

We suggest the following mechanism:
